

A message to our customers:

We take safety very seriously. You may have heard in the news recently of propane that was delivered without the necessary odorant added. We would like to assure you that we have not received any propane from the facility involved, nor will we at any time in the future. All of our propane is tested at the time of sale for the correct amount of odorant. Our propane supply has been tested by the State Fire Marshal's office and deemed to have the odorant required. We will continue to monitor our supply daily to ensure customer safety.
